4. Research in Progress

- 1) Explaining Central Asian Foreign Fighter Organizations in Syria, journal manuscript in progress
 - This article examines the role of ideational propaganda, sacred authority and networking in motivating Central Asian foreign fighter groups; I look at those not covered in my Oxford 2023 book.
 - to be submitted for review March 2023
- 2) Explaining popular support for sharia in Kyrgyzstan, journal manuscript in progress
 - This article is an analysis of two original national surveys which I conducted in Kyrgyzstan, together with focus groups, journal manuscript in progress (material cut out of my Oxford book),
 - to be submitted for review spring 2023
- 3) Islam, Illiberalism and Democracy in Postcommunist Eurasia
 - I received a GIA grant in 2022 to fund field work for a project on the Islamization and illiberal democracy in post-communist Eurasia (including cases in the post-Soviet Caucasus and post-communist Eastern Europe)
- 4) Islamic revival and illiberalism in Azerbaijan, journal manuscript in progress, draws on ethnographic field work and original, national surveys in Azerbaijan, which I prepared and conducted with in-country survey groups (material cut out of my Oxford book)
- 5) Postcommunist Military Reform:
 - This is a new project that I have been developing for the past several years, as I have been teaching Russian foreign policy and its wars in Chechnya, Ukraine, and Syria. This project examines the role of military culture, national identity, and democratic values, as well as the Russian threat, in influencing postcommunist military reform and particularly the effective adoption of NATO military standards and implementation of international norms of military conduct and just war. The project builds on my experience working in Kyrgyzstan on the Partnership for Peace program with NATO in the 1990s.

- I have made several field research trips to Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and Georgia, as well as Kyrgyzstan. I will be in Poland, Hungary, and Azerbaijan in spring/summer 2023.
- Grant applications to be submitted in 2023

Collaborative Work-in-Progress with Graduate Students
